

17 February, 2011

Agricultural Forecasts

31 January 2011

Good prospects for olive oil campaign

Winter cereals continue to fall

Early estimates on January 31 point to a general decrease in winter cereals surface, mainly due to the heavy rain that drenched the soil and prevented the sowing.

The balance of the current olive oil campaign is positive, with a foreseen production of good quality and greater in volume vis-à-vis the average of the last five years.
